

T.J. Cass - EPK:

BIO

T. J. Cass a.k.a. T dot Cass or T Cass short for Tony Cassadine, and J is for Junior. Cass was born in Atlanta, GA and raised in Memphis, TN. , and spend most of his time in both Raleigh and Frasyer areas. All though Cass started writing at the age of 11 he grew up singing. He tried to form his first musical group at the age of 12 when he started rapping. He went threw various groups and songs writing for various people, and writing poetry before deciding to hook up with what would be the last group for a while. He hooked up with E Rok and Law his god brothers and recorded there 1st and only song to this date titled love me. He continued writing for years and working on his productions. He wrote about trying to hide his sexuality, and if he should let anyone know. He finally came out to some but still didn't decide to put it into his music until he recorded the 1st five songs that let him know that he could and would continue as a solo artist which was bump this *, Hustle, Intro of my nigga, on the low, and * * nigga. He continued to write and ended up going off to Job Corp for a year. On his summer break he wrote a song called Get Like Me and recorded a verse to Khia's Snatch the Cat Back. He decided to continue went he got out of Job Corps. He came back to hook up with some other friends that rap to record the song Murk Da Beat with Ne-Nee, Ben, and T Baby, to show himself and others that he only gets better with time. He is now recording, and working to get signed. He states "Although it won't be easy, it's not impossible..."
