BIO

"Its not about me, its about us." And when I say us, I mean the entire industry. I believe that we can revolutionize the world of music as we know it. Some artists are out for tha money and only the money. I do not fit in that catagory. I mean dont get me wrong, I love money as much as anyone, but I think that with enough effort and work, the money will be there. Im in it for recognition. We started back in 2000 when I met Jay tech in southeast missouri. I had been writing for about 3 years before we met. He was interested in the Rap game, and I grew up surrounded by the influences I listed above. Jay asked me if I ever made beats, and when I replied no he said, "lets make some." That began our career, and what was once just a dream started to take shape into a reality. We started Port 9 Productions, and now have 11 artists that we record with, as well as a couple of producers on standby if we need them. Im the bidnezz man, and jay is tha production genius. It works out great for us. We are planning a series of compilations titled, "Makin Moves" which feature all of the artists we work with, set to hit store shelves by late January of 2009. Also, we are currently exploring ways to branch out to other artists within a few hours of them to further expand their range of recognition. Game recognize game. Anything else you want to know? just ask.
